

Salary Class Prediction Project Description

The given dataset is the human resources data of an Iranian company that has 10 characteristics. Perform data analysis and build an interpretable classification model predicting the salary class of employees. Use different methods and measure the accuracy of each model to reach the best model.